FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 3, 1911

Despite the fact that three Ohio dry counties have gone wet the past week Columbiana dries declare that their faith in winning in Friday's contest is unshaken.

Several Ohio counties have surprised the dries the past week by returning to the wet column. And it is just possible that the wets have been as much surprised as the dries.

President Taft by proclamation has fixed Thursday, Nov. 30, as Thanksgiving. Rich harvests, industrial prosperity, enlarged markets, freedom from famine, pestilence and war are mentioned as some of the country's reasons for thanksgiving.

W. S. Cappeller, long a conspicuous figure in Ohio republican politics, and for a quarter of a century editor and publisher of the Mansfield News, died Wednesday at his home in Mansfield from the effects of a stroke of paralysis, aged nearly 73 years.

And now it is proposed to abolish the handshake. Without being able to grip paws the candidate would sometimes be at a loss to know how to greet voters. Surely the notion of abolishing the old-time handshake never originated in the mind of a man who ever entertained a thought of running for office.

It is given out that a syndicate of English capitalists will soon acquire the independent telephone companies in New Jersey, Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Ohio, Indiana and part of Illinois. For some time it has been generally believed that the Bell Co. would take over the independent companies in Ohio and several other of the states mentioned above.

SALEM

The Buckeye Engine Co. shipped the other day a double acting gas engine that will develop 450 horse power. It went to San Francisco.

Dr. J. M. Carr's funeral, held last Saturday from the M. E. Church, was very largely attended. Burial was made in Grandview cemetery.

Edwin Baillie, long prominent in the business affairs of this city, died last Sunday of a complication of diseases, aged 62 years. Deceased was a native of this city. He is survived by his wife and one daughter. Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon and burial was in Hope cemetery.

Mrs. Sarah Crawford, 74 years old, died Monday of Bright's disease. She is survived by three children. Funeral services were held Wednesday afternoon.

There is much speculation as to how this city will vote at the local option election Friday. Both wets and dries are claiming the city with apparent confidence.

The Halloween celebration Tuesday night was a great success. The parade attracted much attention. There was fun for everybody.

Julius Venable, a young colored man, was arrested Monday night at the instance of his step-mother who charged him with threatening to shoot her.

Dark days, such as we have had this week, are calculated to breed discontent among the natives.

Those old-time bob-tailed street cars cannot disappear from Salem streets too soon to suit most citizens.

Information has been sent out that there will be a general strike of Ohio coal miners April 1, 1911. It is claimed that operators will demand a cut of five cents a ton for pick mining and the miners will demand an increase of five cents a ton. This makes a difference of ten cents a ton between them.

BRYAN ON THE I. AND R.

Bryan on the I. and R.—The initiative and referendum are fundamentally right and there is no argument against them except an argument that strikes at the very foundation of popular government. It is an absurdity to say that people can delegate power to others which they can not exercise themselves.

Representative government sometimes misrepresents and the initiative and referendum are intended to correct this defect. Under the initiative and referendum the people give the representatives all the power they ever had, but say to them: "Pass such laws as you think best, but if you pass any that we do not approve of we will veto them through the referendum, and if you fail to pass any that we want passed, we will pass them ourselves through the initiative. Now, behave yourselves! The better you do the less we will have to do." Who, except an aristocrat, can object to putting the people in control of their own government? (John P. Conroy, candidate for delegate from Mahoning county, to the constitutional convention, stands firmly for the I. and R.)

It's easier to talk women out of 98 cents than it is to fight men out of a dollar.

YOUNGSTOWN

Realizing that with all the candidates—Weiss, Maag, Conroy, Johnston and Anderson—in as they are now for constitutional delegate that Anderson has a cinch efforts were made during the week to get them all out of the way but the two republicans—Johnston and Anderson—but all the work was in vain, though the candidates themselves cannot help to see and realize they are doing the very thing that Mr. Anderson desires.

There was a big time here the night of Halloween when there was the usual fantastic parade by the Mystic Krew, who, this year, were headed by King Kornstalk Harry Weaver.

It is a good bet—perhaps a cinch—that Leonard Fitzgerald will be elected member of the board of education on the South Side. He was next thing to the unanimous nominee and if that means anything it proves his election.

Globe Store, S. D. Currier, the old reliable, is soon to have the great wallpaper store in this section of the universe if not on earth. His establishment to be in the same line with the shows given by P. T. Barnum.

It was a great day the time the renowned showman himself was in this city. He stopped at the Tod House and from there in the evening all the newspapermen in town were hauled in carriages to the circus.

Personal guests of Mr. Barnum, who cheered the performers oftener and longer and laughed more heartily than any buckwheat or greenhorn under the canvas. He had a colored servant, a polished fellow, Robert, with him all the time and everywhere and spoke to him with as much politeness and kindness as if he had been his own son or daughter.

The chances are that Robert idolized the great and good showman. It was a lesson of consideration, deference and devotion that witnessed could not fail to lastingly impress.

Under the new ruling on the election law no carriages will be sent out this year to haul voters to the polls. And it seems to be right. If a man is too lazy to vote it is a small loss if he doesn't.

Lydia Grummel, who was found with R. R. McCready of Beaver Falls in the Salow hotel two weeks ago, both suffering from revolver wounds, has been recently discharged from the hospital but the man is still in the hospital, his wounds being more serious.

Albert Elton, local aviator, has decided to retire from the flying business after he has completed his contracts in several parts of the country.

Adolph Burkhardt, aged 8 years, Tuesday afternoon ran in front of an automobile driven by F. B. Lewis and was badly hurt.

Chris Diana, a milkman, was set upon by a crowd of Italians Tuesday night and stabbed four times. A number of suspects are under arrest.

Mrs. Wm. Clegghorn, suffering from a long illness, attempted suicide Wednesday morning by taking carbolic acid. She will recover.

CANDIDATE FOR CONSTITUTIONAL CONVENTION

 is a Popular Candidate for Constitutional Delegate.

William F. Maag, Jr., is a candidate for delegate to the constitutional convention which will meet in Columbus early next year to frame a constitution that will meet the needs of the state. He is a graduate of Harvard university, editor of the Sunday Vindicator, a member of the Youngstown civil service commission, and has been active in the charities of the city. His education, experience, and wide interests fit him for the position, and if elected he will go to Columbus free to represent fairly all the people of Mahoning county.

AUTUMN WASH.

She hangs her gold on the hickory trees,
 Her red on the maples fine;
 Her gums and crimson with all the leaves of all the elegant wines.
 Her yellow aprons are on the bough
 Of the sassafras in the glen,
 And the oaks are brown with her blues now.

As she dances before all men,
 Her collar of purple the sumach holds
 And the tunic of flames the flame
 Of some garments her beauty holds
 There's no use giving them name,
 Full many a wind from the cold north west
 Blows over them in the sun,
 And there she stands with her naked breast
 And her lips bubbling fun.

Her garments are drying as best they can
 On tree and grasses and vine;
 And oh, for the colors for eyes to scan,
 And, oh, for the beauty divine!
 Her wash-day brightens the solemn spell
 That the fading summer left,
 And how with her glory on hill and dell
 Could the world be ever better?

JUDGE JOHNSTON

Candidate for Constitutional Convention Sets Forth Needs of the Convention.

Judge J. R. Johnston of Youngstown, who is state commander of the G. A. R. and ex-Judge of the Mahoning county courts, is putting up a good, clean campaign for his election as delegate to the coming constitutional convention. Judge Johnston has had a long and honorable career as soldier, lawyer and jurist, and is one of the best known men in Eastern Ohio.

The Judge is well qualified by education and experience to meet fairly and intelligently the great questions that will come before the convention. In a recent speech before the Up-to-Date club in the Y. M. C. A. at Youngstown he set forth the needs of the coming convention as follows:

Need of New Convention.

"The growth of the business interests of the state, the increase of population, particularly in the cities, together with new and modern ideas in regard to the conduct of the government, all have tended to create a demand for a new convention and this is the reason why the coming convention has been provided for. It will have many important questions to determine and the delegates chosen should be selected with a view to fair treatment of them all and that no particular question should dominate and all others be subordinated to it. The rights of every citizen or aggregation of citizens, lawfully constituted, should be carefully guarded, and every interest or aggregation of interests, lawfully combined, should be given consideration and protection at their hands."

"The traffic in intoxicating liquors should receive attention and a separate proposition in regard to licensing the same should be submitted, so that the people can vote upon this distinctive feature without embarrassment from other questions involved. They should submit a full and fair expression of their views on this question. A majority of the people want a license they should have it, and if a majority want a prohibition they should have an opportunity of expressing their views upon the subject."

"The question of the taxation of real and personal property is an important one and the powers of the legislature should be such that it can fairly and justly reach every species of property and it should have the right to declare what should constitute property subject to taxation, so that every species should be subject to taxation and none escape from it, but this right of taxation should be so limited that no interests should be sacrificed and none confiscated."

Municipal Government.

"The question of municipal government should receive careful attention and the right of home rule should not be ignored, and if that is deemed merited."

"The question of the initiative, referendum and recall are all comparatively new and as many intelligent and thoughtful people believe in them they ought not to be ignored. The initiative is largely untried and whether its adoption would produce the beneficial results claimed for it may be somewhat problematical and the same is true of the referendum. But because they are new, new rights and new powers should not be restricted and limitations they should not receive a fair trial. The provision of the old constitution as well as the present one, which is now section 1 of the Bill of Rights that 'No power of suspending laws shall ever be exercised, except by the general assembly,' which has been a part of the organic law of the state for more than hundred years, should not be ruthlessly eliminated, therefore without good reason therefor, and without a reasonable assurance that such change would be beneficial. Under proper restrictions and limitations the change could be made and if the same should prove detrimental it could readily be abandoned."

"The subject of 'recall' of public officers presents a difficult question and in my judgment the people should hesitate before making so radical a change in their government. We all agree that the right of trial by jury should not be abrogated, it is difficult to see why an official should not have the same right as the individual citizen, and if found guilty of crime in connection with his office make the penalty, in part, a removal from office. If this power does not exist at present it can readily be supplied, and it would seem as though a recall, with less expense, more fairness and much less trouble and a greater certainty of doing justice, and in the application of such a provision I would not discriminate in favor of any officer or class of officers."

"A non-partisan ticket for the election of judges would seem to meet the demand of the public and the courts should demand their power to remove the complaint of 'government by injunction' and 'judicial legislation.'"

"The power to pass laws for compensation, either for death or injury should be distinctly defined so that no question of their constitutionality could be raised to embarrass and delay the collection of just claims. There will be many other questions not here mentioned that the delegates will be called upon to consider, and it is to be hoped that they all receive careful and full consideration, so that equal and exact justice may be done as nearly as possible. A constitution thus framed and constructed upon the great foundation principles of equal rights for all and special privileges for none and with religious liberty and universal rights as its basis, would not fail to meet the approval of the people of the state when submitted to them for ratification. If not thus framed it should be defeated."

"The right to amend the constitution is inherent in the people. The organic law is not like the Ark of the Covenant, so sacred that the people dare not lay their hands upon it, yet the people should profit by the example of Sampson and not blindly tear down the pillars of their government under which they have grown strong and great lest they should, like him, be caught and crushed in the ruin that would follow."

Lights Replace Ushers.
 To economize on ushers a New York moving picture theater has installed small incandescent lamps on the backs of the seats, arranged to burn only when a seat is unoccupied.

W. C. T. U. Temperance Rally.

The temperance rally held in the Berlin Center M. E. Church last Sunday evening proved a complete success. Long ere the appointed hour the church was filled. The church was artistically decorated in W. C. T. U. and Franchise colors, with chrysanthemums and white ribbon. Frances E. Willard's picture occupied a central position in the decoration, with those of Lincoln and Washington upon either side, the arrangement being similar to the positions of the statues of these noted Americans in a memorial hall at the Capitol in Washington, D. C. It will be remembered that Frances Willard was the first woman to be accorded that honor.

Special music of the evening was under the leadership of Miss Luella King and every number was ideal. The school children added much to the evening, with a temperance song.

The audience responded in the scripture lesson by scripture texts, after which Attorney Thomas Thomas of Youngstown was introduced. He spoke in a pleasing, earnest manner, in a fluency of speech that held his audience spellbound. The attorney explained that division of the Constitutional Convention along the temperance line; from the standpoint of law and in very certain terms, that no voter within the sound of his voice could possibly go to the polls and vote against the boys and girls of this state and not know his sin.

The next speaker was Hon. John G. Cooper of whom we can say his mother was a white-ribboner, and likewise his wife; even more, Mr. Cooper is an honorary member of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union; and of whom Wayne B. Wheeler said at the Goshen M. E. Church: "Hon. J. G. Cooper at Columbus worked for temperance all day long, and many a night while you people slept." The voters of Mahoning county may well stand by Mr. Cooper for he served the temperance cause with might and in truth. In a masterly way and from a mind full of Christian ideas, he spoke eloquently on the Christian life and the Christian ballot. He further paid a glowing tribute to the memory of the Christian mother. An ideal evening, a large audience, and an excellent temperance rally which cannot but bring forth much good.

VERSATILITY IN THE ARMY.

Is there anything that cannot be done by officers of the United States army? And done exceptionally well? There is nothing. For example, take Colonel Goethals and watch him construct the Panama Canal with ease and grace after various civilians had tried their hands at the job without achieving any glittering success. Then take the five bachelor lieutenants at Fort Scriven, Georgia, who gave a chafing-dish party, the particulars of which we find in the Army and Navy Journal. It was a surprise party. It was given in the Bachelors' Club. The service publication which makes known the achievements of these heroes justly remarks that "a great deal of praise is due the bachelors for having given such an elaborate party without the assistance of the ladies of the post," says the Chicago News.

For example: "The dining-room and den, in themselves very handsome, were lavishly decorated with carnations and ferns. The beautiful pale pink flowers were massed in profusion on the mantel and library table in the den. In the dining-room a large vase, filled with the same gorgeous flowers adorned the table. As a souvenir of the occasion a large bouquet, tied with pink tulle, was presented to each of the young ladies present. A delightful Welsh rabbit was served with dainty sandwiches, and a mild punch was served during the evening." Is it not plain that these bachelors are artists and poets as well as warriors?

What bachelor outside the service could tie a bow of pink tulle around a bouquet? Doubtless, any one of the five, like Cyrano, could compose a ballade while preparing to transfuse an enemy on the point of his service sword. Gentlemen, a toast, standing, to the army men who can concoct a Welsh rabbit which will not kill either at close or long range.

Between wind and fire the great dirigible balloons of German construction are having a hard time of it. The seventh of these unfortunate airships, the Parseval V., was destroyed by flames while undergoing repairs, and but a few months ago it was barely saved from disaster by making a perilous descent during a storm. The other airships of the Zeppelin type, met with their misfortunes through being caught in gales, one of them, the Deutschland II., being smashed while making a flight, says the Pittsburgh Chronicle-Telegraph. Fortunately there has thus far been no loss of life in the wrecks of the dirigibles, although passengers and crews have narrowly escaped death on several occasions. Notwithstanding these costly accidents, for each loss of a dirigible means a large sum, the projectors of this method of aerial transportation courageously continue their labors, replacing destroyed airships with new ones as rapidly as they can be constructed.

An old horseshoeing firm in New York went out of business lately because of the increase of automobile wagons in traffic, and now the horse is to be replaced in the field by the gasoline engine. But the horse is not complaining of being thus supplanted. His stand is "Let me have the dress-parade shows of the nation, and I care not who or what does the work." Which is real horse sense.

FIVE PER CENT.

VI
 Another feature of our business that helps us to pay FIVE PER CENT is the fact that we take no commercial risks. Loans on personal security are not made by this institution, the only security accepted being mortgage of Real Estate. It is a matter of common knowledge that the losses on commercial loans are far greater than those on Mortgage Loans. By excluding that class of loans, those losses are avoided.

ALL CANFIELD COUGHING!

Death from a gun-shot wound less to be feared than Death from pneumonia.

A great number of our city's men, women and children have colds and coughs today. The air seems to be fairly laden with these throat and lung troubles. There is great danger of contracting pneumonia or consumption from them. Nearly every case has its beginning in a cold or cough, and many people die as a result. Beware!
 A sudden chill, stifling fever, sore throat, hoarseness, running nose, rattling cough, rattling and wheezing in chest, painful breathing, signify that your cold borders on pneumonia.
 There are many remedies offered for colds, but there is one certain, reliable article that we know of—Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup. It is best for soothing and subduing the inflamed, sore, bronchial tubes and lungs. It wards off pneumonia. It checks cough at once. Cuts a cold short. Don't wait to see if your cold or cough wears away of itself, as pneumonia may come over night.
 Get it first by sending a postal for a free sample. Address A. C. MEYER & CO., Baltimore, Md. But, to have no delay, get a regular bottle of the remedy; price, 25c, from your druggist today. This is the best advice we can give to avoid pneumonia. (ADV.)

It was the anniversary of his young son's birthday, and the proud father, who felt that he ought to give the lad something, stepped into a bookseller's shop.

"What kind of book would you like, sir?" asked the assistant, to whom the other had confided his purpose.
 "Something that would be useful and educative," answered the father, forgetting that he always detested such books in his own boyhood.

"Well, here is a very excellent one on 'Self-Help!'"

"Self-Help!" exclaimed the father. "Ben don't need anything of that kind. You ought to see him at the dinner-table!"
